ANTIOCH TO WAGE WAR ON PEDDLERS; PROPOSE LICENSE

Council Plans Ordinance Requiring Inspection of Food Stuffs

Carefree days for itinerant peddlers and vendors of foodstuffs who overrun Antioch and the lakes region with the return of each resort season are over, at least so far as the village board is concerned, if the village board is successful in passing a somewhat stringent licensing ordinance, either at its special session tonight or at the May meeting next Tuesday night.

The proposed ordinance, which is now being drafted by Village Attorney George McGaughey, is intended to promote sanitation and at the same time provide an additional revenue for the village.

Chief sufferers from the itinerant type of vendor have been the resort communities of the state, which have a great influx of vacationists during the summer season. For many years such localities have been a lure to peddlers of all sorts, and at the present time many towns are taking steps to stop at least a part of this traffic by enacting ordinances requiring license fees and providing for inspection of all foods sold within the municipality.

Courts Hold Law Valid

The validity of such an ordinance has been established through a four-year court battle waged by the city of Troy near East St. Louis. Under a ruling of the United States district court of appeals the Troy ordinance which required inspection fees on foreign trucks hauling into the city has been held valid. The decision is in the case of the Jewel Tea company and is final unless the court grants a rehearing or the company takes the case to the United States Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari.

Troy is the first city in the United States to pass an ordinance of this nature, so far as is known from court decisions. The Troy ordinance was drafted by the ordinance revision attorney for the Illinois Municipal League. Antioch has been a member of the League for several years.

Tea Company Loses

When the Troy ordinance became effective representatives of the Jewel Tea Company sought an injunction in the United States district court at Springfield. The tea company lost in those proceedings.

Under the ordinance food peddlers in Troy are required to pay $15.00 as annual license fees for inspection, but it is not necessary that local vehicles be charged a similar rate.

The licensing proposal has been under discussion several times at sessions of the village board, but it was not until recently that the village attorney was instructed to draft the ordinance.

Announce Week-end Amusements

Among the specials on the amusement menu for lakes region residents this week-end are two grand openings and a birthday party, as announced in advertisements in this edition of the News.

A chicken dinner will be served Saturday night at Ralph Thompson's newly decorated tavern at 933 Main street, Antioch.

North of Antioch at the state line, Dominic Gianini will hold forth at his State Line Inn with the usual specially prepared Italian foods in celebration of his birthday. Since purchasing the inn six months ago, Dominic has completely re-decorated the interior and has transformed it into an extremely homey place, in anticipation of his grand opening to be held in the near future. He formerly operated the Rocco cafe in Kenosha.

Over at Twin Lakes, Carl E. Rademacher announces the grandest grand opening he has ever had during his 20 years in business at the popular resort center. Rademacher formerly operated his place under the name of Twin Lakes Ballroom. Now he announces the opening of his new Wonder Bar, which is declared to be Wisconsin's most beautiful night club.

Dave Davis and his orchestra and an all star floor show headed by Al Marney will make Saturday night's opening a gala event at Twin Lakes.

Undergoes Major Operation

Mrs. Joseph Panowski underwent a major operation at the Burlington hospital Monday morning. Reports at this time are that she is improving.

Thomas Berry and children of Chicago spent Tuesday in Antioch.

JOE LOUIS TO TRAIN AT LAKE GENEVA

Lake Geneva will be the training site of Joe Louis for his fight with the heavyweight title holder, Jimmie Braddock, at Comiskey Park in Chicago, June 22. The Brown Bomber's managers announced their decision yesterday to the Lake Geneva Chamber of Commerce and other boosters who have been active in seeking to land the big attraction for the early summer season.

Many thousands of visitors will visit Lake Geneva to get a glimpse of the dusky mauler who will set up training quarters in the old ball park there. Champion James J. Braddock is expected to set up training quarters in Michigan. Joe Gould, the champion's manager, was inspecting sites at Michigan City and Grand Beach yesterday and was expected to come to a decision before nightfall.

Re-Condition Boys' Y. M. C. A. Camp for Coming Season

Camp Hyde Park at Hastings Lake to Plant 300 Silver Maples

A crew of 12 boys under supervision of James Manley, superintendent, and Ward M. Gray, camp director, Camp Hyde Park, the Y. M. C. A. boys' camp at Hastings lake is being put in condition this week in preparation for the coming season.

Besides re-conditioning all camp equipment, plans have been completed for planting 300 silver maples, 10 year old trees, which will be paid for by friends of the boys.

The camp will open this season June 21 and will consist of five periods of two weeks each, the closing period to end August 30. This camp is for boys from 9 to 17 years of age. The camp, one of the three "Y" camps on Hastings lake, is operated by the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. Formerly all three camps were operated through the central office of the Y. M. C. A., but during recent years each camp has been under the sponsorship of a separate unit of the "Y."

Funeral services for Mrs. Robert Sibley, 80, were held at Strang's funeral home in Antioch Monday afternoon, with interment in Liberty Corners cemetery. Mrs. Sibley died Friday in the Kenosha hospital following a few days illness of pneumonia.

Before her marriage to Robert Sibley in 1879, she was Mary Elizabeth Hunter and she was born near Antioch August 15, 1857.

She is survived by her husband, two sons, Roy and John, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Rumpesky, Trevor, and Mrs. Ada Murk, Kenosha; two brothers, Henry Hunter of Antioch, and Robert Hunter, Richmond; also nine grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

Wedens Invoke Farm Act; Halt Foreclosure

For the first time in Lake county the revised Frazier-Lenke act was put into practice Monday when Andrew Wedens and his wife, Lillian, obtained an injunction from Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to halt the foreclosure sale of their 76 acres of farm land at Grass Lake.

Foreclosure proceedings were brought by Mrs. Emma Selter of Antioch against the Wedens for $32,000, and the sale of the property was to have taken place Monday based on the findings in the foreclosure proceedings.

By invoking the Frazier-Lenke act, the Wedens put a stop to the proposed sale and removed the case from the jurisdiction of the circuit court.

The new farm act, which was recently declared constitutional by the supreme court, authorizes a three-year moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures. They will be referred to a government conciliator, and there probably will be a re-appraisal of the property involved.

The Wedens will continue to occupy the property. At the end of the moratorium period, if the re-appraised mortgage value has not been paid, the Wedens or Mrs. Selter may ask for another re-appraisal if property valuations have gone up or down.

DRIVER EXONERATED IN AUTO FATALITY

Coroner's Jury Holds Robt. Brogan Blamless in Collision Death

A jury verdict returned Friday at Coroner James A. Grossin's inquest into the death of John A. Sanders, Chicago, holds Robert Brogan of Antioch blameless for the accident which occurred March 28 resulting in the death of the Chicago man. Sanders was killed when the car in which he was riding collided with one Brogan who was driving on Highway 83 near the state line north of Antioch.

The verdict reads: "It is the opinion of the jury that said Robert Brogan, in the operation of his car, showed no criminal intent." The inquest was delayed nearly a month due to injuries of some of the witnesses who were riding in the Sanders car.

Mrs. Anderson Honored at Auxiliary Meeting

Mrs. William J. Anderson, past president and long an active member of the Antioch American Legion Auxiliary, was presented with a beautiful gift by the local unit Tuesday night at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. B. R. Burke. The gift was presented to Mrs. Anderson as a token of love and esteem and for her faithful services to the Auxiliary. The Andersons are to leave soon for their new home in Deerfield.

Following the business session Tuesday night cards and luncheon were enjoyed. High bridge scores went to Mrs. Ruth Ward and Mrs. Betty Mortensen, and Mrs. Edward won the prize in 500.

Assisting Mrs. Burke as co-hostesses were Mrs. Walter Hills and Mrs. B. Miller.

Mrs. Christian Laubel and daughter, Mrs. Emil Lubkeman, spent Thursday in Waukegan.

HUNDREDS ATTEND GYM EXHIBITION AT ANTIOCH H. SCHOOL

Demonstration Is Success; Will Be an Annual Event

Over a thousand spectators attended the first annual physical education exhibition staged in the Antioch High school gymnasium Friday afternoon and evening under the direction of Athletic Director R. H. Childers and Miss Helen M. Olson, head of the girls' physical education department.

Almost the entire student body participated in the program of sixteen events, which featured boys' and girls' gym classes in group activities, folk dances, drills, pyramids, tumbling, tap dancing, free exercises, and a fencing exhibition by members of the Waukegan Y. M. C. A. as an added attraction.

Although the program, required nearly three hours time all the events held the rapt attention of spectators until the last number—the square dance by boys and girls of the high school.

Music was furnished by the high school band under the direction of Hans Von Holwede.

Objectives of Physical Education. The objectives of physical education, Coach Childers explained, is to develop good health and posture through supervised exercises; to develop grace and poise through muscular co-ordination; to develop social behavior through games and guidance; and to develop in all boys and girls a recreational background through expression in play and athletic activities.

"The object of this demonstration," Mr. Childers said, "is to show the aim of physical education at the Antioch High School."

In the opinion of those who attended, it did just that, and most admirably.

This first exhibition of the kind ever held in this locality has drawn favorable comment to the school, and the announcement that the demonstration is to be an annual event is pleasing to patrons and friends of the school.

CONFERENCE OPENER IS SCORELESS TIE

Antioch and Warren Battle Seven Innings with No Counters

Cold and windy weather put a damper on the first conference baseball game between Antioch and Warren high schools Monday afternoon when the season opener resulted in a scoreless tie at the end of seven innings. The game was played at Gurnee.

Jack Riddell, local flinger, allowed only two hits while his teammates garnered four safeties off the offerings of Janus, the Warren moundsman. Antioch failed to hit when a bingle was badly needed to produce a run.

A return game with Warren will be played at Antioch May 21.

Tomorrow Antioch takes on Waukegan high at the local diamond. The game starts at 4 p. m.

TAVERN LICENSES EXPIRE FRIDAY; BOARD ACTS TODAY

Council Tonight Will Consider Renewal of Liquor Permits

Applications for renewal of tavern licenses and permits for the sale of alcoholic beverages in Antioch will come before the village council in special meeting tonight.

No applications for renewal of licenses had been filed prior to the April meeting of the board; and the next regular meeting does not occur until May 4, thus it became a matter of necessity to call the special meeting tonight, otherwise no tavern could open its doors after 12:00 o'clock midnight Friday and no liquor store could sell any bottled goods until their applications had been acted upon favorably by the village board.

Fees from $50 to $300. According to ordinance, licenses in Antioch are of five kinds, as follows: Class A, taverns selling all kinds of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises. Class A licenses cost $300.00 per year.

Class B licenses permit the sale of liquors and beer in containers, not for consumption of the premises, and cost $150.00.

Class C licenses may be obtained by clubs for the sale of beer to club members only, and cost $50.00.

Class D licenses are granted to hotels and restaurants for the retail sale of beer on the premises. No bars are permitted under class D licenses and the principal business of the licensee must be the sale of food. The fee is $200.00.

Pharmacists may procure Class E licenses, which permit the sale of hard liquors in bottles. Drinking on premises not permitted.

The latest licensee in Antioch is Gus Mantis who was granted a Class D license recently for his Antioch Cafe.

The ordinance provides that liquor license fees may be paid in two installments, one-half the amount to be paid in cash when license is granted.

The Physical Education Demonstration

The Physical Education Demonstration at the Antioch Township High school Friday afternoon and evening revealed visibly the progress achieved in this necessary and vital part of a well-balanced training of our young men and women.

One of the most striking features of the entire sixteen numbers of the demonstration was the evidently friendly and respectful co-operation between the student body and the instructors. Willing, even eager participation by the students was an inspiring sight. Even the few necessary, but kindly admonitions by the teachers might well prove an inspiration to parents and contemporary instructors.

Teachers who can, and do, reveal to students the necessity and the eventual efficacy of the work they assign and require—who can provoke inspiration and enlist warm interest and co-operation—those teachers indeed have found their work. Such teachers look not upon their jobs as merely a means of livelihood—they are conscious of having found opportunity for service. That is what distinguishes them, unmistakably, as natural leaders of the young whose lives and characters are in the making. They are true representatives of the highest human calling.

Capable and conscientious teachers who seek to prepare those under their care, physically, mentally, and morally to approach the business of life strong, fit and unafraid, deserve the highest commendation of a grateful community.

That is to say, Mr. R. H. Childers, coach and physical training director for boys, and Miss Helen M. Olson, director of physical education for girls, are doing a splendid work at the Antioch High school. Congratulations! And congratulations also to the student body whose enthusiastic co-operation made the first annual physical education demonstration the success it was.

The Process of Dictatorship

There is a mistaken idea in the minds of many people that drastic reorganization of the Federal courts in general, and "packing" of the Supreme Court in particular, is the only way of changing the legal standing of certain kinds of laws that have been found unconstitutional.

The fact is that no document could be more maleable, or could be more readily adapted to changing conditions when a definite need exists and popular opinion is massed in favor of change, than the Constitution.

The means for change is found in the body of the Constitution itself where provision is made for amendments. More than 20 amendments have been added to the document since it was first written. And it is a noteworthy fact that the more important amendments, with few exceptions, have been passed in a reasonably short time after their introduction.

A few decades ago, for example Congress passed a bill empowering the Federal government to levy a tax on incomes. A test case was taken through the courts, and the measure finally held unconstitutional. But no one attempted to "pack" a court which had simply done its duty under the law, because of that act. Instead, President Taft advocated a constitutional amendment, and the proposal went before the people in the orderly, prescribed manner. The people agreed with the President—and the income tax amendment soon followed.

Similar examples are found in the amendments providing for prohibition, for prohibition repeal, for female suffrage, etc. This is a democracy—and when the voice of the people demands a change, that change comes. To attempt change through court packing or any other subterfuge is not a democratic process—but a process of dictatorship, whether we like that word or not.

Will the Consumer Strike?

Chairman Martin R. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board, has made a public statement for which he should be given a vote of thanks by every thoughtful person. He calls for "a prompt balancing of the Federal budget."

He stated facts which public men have dodged in this period of hysterical effort to boost wages, reduce production and increase the cost of living, when he said increased wages and shorter hours which restrict production "are not at this time in the interest of the public in general or in the real interest of the workers themselves. . . . The upward spiral of wages and prices into inflationary price levels can be as disastrous as the downward spiral of deflation."

The consumer has been overlooked in the strike situation and the political situation, which are boosting wages and prices for favored groups. All of this brings the day closer when the consumer will call a strike.

He won't be organized, he won't have any leaders, he will make no threats, there will be no flag-waving to get votes. He will just decide of his own accord that he will put off buying because prices are too high. Overnight the wheels of industry will slow down; men will find themselves out of jobs; labor leaders will be unable to do anything about it; the economists and politicians who figure everything out on paper, but not in practice, will start peddling new theories. But that won't give jobs.

Yes, Mr. Martin R. Eccles is correct. The people should heed his advice.

Firing the Boss

Recent Press dispatches from Milwaukee told how employees of a drug company went on a sit-down strike against the boss. They finally forced retirement of the man who was the principal owner of the company, and who had been president and general manager for 37 years.

Disregarding the question of whether the charges against the boss were justified, this sit-down strike illustrates excellently something that confronts the American people. The issue is this: Does the man whose efforts have let him accumulate something have the right to say what he shall do with what he has accumulated?

For clarity, let's translate that into everyday language. The question is this: Does the man who buys a grocery store have the right to run that store? Does the home owner have the right to be boss in his home? Does the farmer have the right to run his own farm?

The parallels are exact. In the Milwaukee case, the drug company happened to have 115 employees. But by their sit-down strike, they were saying to the man who gave them their jobs: "We don't like the way you run this business. We think you had better get out and turn the business over to somebody who will run it the way we want it run. It may be your business but by George, we're going to run it our way!"

Nothing more sharply illustrates the choice which the American people must make. Shall we choose the Milwaukee way, placing in the hands of a noisy minority the rights and powers to regulate our existence, creating power without responsibility? Or shall we preserve the principles for which Americans have fought and died for 150 years—the right to accumulate and own private property; the right to govern by majority will; the right to engage and prosper in any lawful business we choose?

TO WATCH ECLIPSE FROM TINY ISLAND

Scientists Prepare for Important Event in June.

Washington, D. C.—One of the largest and most completely equipped expeditions ever organized to study a total eclipse of the sun will be sent by the National Geographic society and the United States navy to observe the unusual solar eclipse of next June 8, from a tiny coral atoll in the midst of the Pacific ocean.

There are only two tiny islands from which satisfactory observations of the eclipse can be made, in the entire path of the eclipse, which extends for 5,000 miles across the Pacific ocean. The expedition will use one of these two islands. The eclipse will be visible from the mainland of Peru about sunset, but the sun then will be too low in the sky to permit satisfactory observations.

This will be the longest eclipse of the sun visible from the earth in 1,200 years, having a maximum duration of totality of 7 minutes and 4 seconds. This eclipse also will "end the day before it starts." Its path will cross the international date line in the mid-Pacific, so that it will begin on June 9, but end on June 8.

Participating with the National Geographic society in the expedition will be the United States navy; the national bureau of standards, and the astronomical observatories of several universities. Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, has arranged for the navy mine sweeper "Avocet" to transport the party from Honolulu to the Phoenix islands early in May; and for the instruments to be sent to Honolulu aboard the navy's new cruiser "Quincy" via the Panama canal.

Dr. Briggs in Charge.

The scientific program has been initiated and is being directed by Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, chairman of the research committee of the National Geographic society. The scientific leader of the expedition will be Dr. S. A. Mitchell, director of Leander McCormick observatory, University of Virginia.

The expedition will establish itself on either Canton or Enderbury island, both of which are in the Phoenix islands, just south of the Equator, about 1,800 miles southwest of the Hawaiian islands and 3,000 miles northeast of Australia. The party will choose one of the two islands, which are about 30 miles apart after arriving in the locality and determining which island offers the best conditions for landing and establishing a camp.

There are eight islands altogether in the Phoenix group. They are all low, coral islands surrounded by reefs, with no permanent inhabitants, and are under the protection of Great Britain.

Enderbury island is about two and one-half miles long and one mile wide, while Canton is approximately nine miles in length and four in width. Both have lagoons in the center, and extend not more than 30 feet above sea level. They are uninhabited. Landing on both islands is difficult.

Complete Program.

Duration of the eclipse will be 4 minutes and 8 seconds on Enderbury island and slightly less on Canton. The maximum duration, 7 minutes and 4 seconds, will occur at noon at a point in the open ocean about 1,500 miles from the nearest land.

The expedition's scientific program will be one of the most complete and comprehensive ever carried out by eclipse observers. Special attention will be devoted to observation of the sun's corona, and the chromosphere, or outer layer of the sun, by photographing the "flash spectrum," which permits the determination of the heights to which vapors rise from the surface of the sun.

There is believed to be an excellent expectation of clear weather in the Phoenix Islands at the time of the eclipse. The eclipse will occur on Enderbury island at 8:04 a. m., and 22 seconds earlier on Canton. This corresponds to 2:15 p. m. eastern standard time.

Eastern Oklahoma Once Home of "Mound People"

Spiro, Okla.—Professional archeologists have concluded that eastern Oklahoma contains some of the most important prehistoric sites north of Mexico.

Dr. Forrest E. Clements, head of the department of anthropology at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, said the culture represented by the former "mound dwellers" of this area shows a closer relation with the Maya and Aztec civilizations of Mexico and Central America than any other so far discovered in the United States.

Originally there were nine mounds in the site, the largest of which was 30 feet high. They were conical in shape and more than 100 feet across the base. The mounds now are being excavated by the University of Oklahoma with funds furnished by the WPA.

Although the mound builders were agriculturists, they are more widely known for their pottery and sculpturing.

Polo Oldest Stick, Ball Game

Regular polo is the oldest game with stick and ball known to mankind. It began in Persia, centuries before the Christian era, and has spread the world over, wherever there are men and horses. Our modern version comes from India, brought back to England by British officers about 1870, and almost immediately popularized there and in the United States.

Editorial Mention

We do not want to have any coolness spring up between Illinois and Wisconsin but if the latter state only will keep its winds to itself until the robins have a chance to nest and the spring lambs get out to grass, the favor will be appreciated. We shall be rather grateful for an occasional cool breeze from across the state line next July or August, but this keeping at it all the while during the vernal spring time grows rather monotonous.

and taxes our friendship like the overstay of a second cousin.

An old settler who watches the weather says that as winds were northeasterly during the 19th, 20th and 21st of March, when the sun crossed the line, we must expect to have the prevailing winds from that direction for three months. That rule has held good for the first month at all events.

Thirty-one Years Ago

The earliest landmark in Lake county was burned to the ground. A list of the places that went down or were partially burned is as follows: house occupied by Hans Gelden and family; the old Tavern, the residence of Mrs. Thomas Gorman. Other houses and stores were protected only by the vigilant action of the villagers in forming bucket brigades and drenching the village with water.

Tongue-Tasting

Not all parts of the tongue are evenly sensitive to the various tastes. The tip of the tongue is better able to taste sweet substances, while the base quickly detects the presence of bitter things. Materials containing salt are most easily tasted at the sides of the tongue, but sour or acid tastes are felt all over.

Demons Are Invoked on Ceylon, "Magic Island"

The Chinese are not the only people who still believe in devils and witchcraft, states a Travel Service authority. Ceylon is often called "The Magic Island" because of its scenic splendor, but from its shores also come queer tales of devil dancing and witchcraft. Demons are still invoked on the island by "Mantras," a combination of meaningless words.

These "Mantras" are recited by the charmer who usually wears his hair and beard long, for this is a protection against the powers of darkness. Should he be overcome by devils while practicing his charms, a friend must tie knots in the hair, pour charmed water on him and trust to luck he will recover. There are no tragedies of unrequited love in Ceylon. If a man falls in love he does not waste any time giving the lady presents or taking her out in the moonlight. He just goes to see a charmer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 25.

The Golden Text was, "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit; that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." (Revelation 14:13).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon are the following from the Bible: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." (1 Corinthians 15:20, 22, 25, 26).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Heaven's unchangeable physical condition after what seemed to be death was followed by his exaltation above all material conditions; and this exaltation explained his ascension, and revealed unmistakably a probationary and progressive state beyond the grave" (p. 46).

Paul Richey Honored at Illinois University

Word from the University of Illinois today indicated that Orville P. Richey of Antioch is one of the more than a thousand students who are being honored tomorrow for excellence in scholarship. Orville is the son of Mrs. Ruby Richey, teacher of the home economics course at the local high school. He is a sophomore at the university.

Because one of the primary concerns of the University is scholarship, those whose records have carried them into the higher brackets of academic achievement have for thirteen years been honored at a special Honor's Day convocation on the campus. The ceremony this year will be held in the George Huff gymnasium, beginning at 10 o'clock. The program will be broadcast by the University's station WLLI, on its new wavelength of 580 kilocycles.

There are three classifications for those to be honored. Thirty-three seniors will be especially honored by having their names inscribed on the Bronze Tablet for sustained excellence in scholarship during their junior and senior years.

Another group of 192, who are in the upper 3 per cent of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes in the respective schools and colleges, will be awarded College Honors in recognition of their superior scholarship and shall be entitled to wear the scholar-ship emblem.

The third group includes 840 students in the upper 10 per cent of each class within the respective schools or colleges who are awarded Class Honors and are entitled to have their names printed in the Convocation program in recognition of their high scholarship, and no one of them has an average below B.

LAKE VILLA

Roman Wagner, Glean Miller, Bob Madison and Tony Sciacero were in Chicago on Tuesday of last week to see the Cubs' opening game and had a very pleasant day.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kapple of Grayslake called on Mrs. Mary Kapple at the C. B. Hamlin home Sunday.

Master Bruce Hamlin visited with his mother in Evanston Saturday and Sunday and enjoyed the circus Sunday afternoon.

Several public events of interest to this community will take place very soon. The P. T. A. is sponsoring a public card party at the school house on Friday evening this week. The proceeds are to be used for the band which has been organized this winter and being trained by Mr. Hodge of the Grant high school. The mother-daughter banquet, an annual affair for May, will be held at the church on Monday evening, May 10th. The committees are all busy on program, menu and all that will go to make it successful, and please be ready when the ticket committee comes to see you. You surely do not want to miss it.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold its next regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon, May 5, with Mrs. Peter Mork at her home, and members are urged to make a special effort to attend.

Mrs. James Kerr and Mrs. Wm. Weber attended a missionary meeting in Chicago on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wagner of Lake Forest visited the home folks on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Meyer at Highland Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartlett and family who have been living in Waukegan, have moved back to Lake Villa and are living in Mr. Bartlett's house on Grand avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Koch of Bensenville and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jorgenson of Chicago, were guests of Mrs. J. A. Pedersen on Sunday.

The Fox Lake Cemetery Society will hold its next meeting at the Monaville school-house on Thursday evening, May 6, and a good attendance is asked for. Will members please take notice. Eva Atwell, Secretary.

Arthur Thayer of Lake Geneva called on his mother, Mrs. Louisa Thayer, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fuhrer were Kenosha visitors on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller of Chicago spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller.

The recent rains have caused the lakes to rise to a higher level than for some time and last week Cedar Lake overflowed, causing the road near the Brickman store to be under water, and a part of it is still under water, though safe for travel.

The Lake County Council of the P. T. A. will meet at the school house for the morning session on Monday, May 3rd, and at noon, the Ladies' Aid will serve dinner for them at the church where the afternoon session will be held. These sessions are open to the public.

Mrs. Mina Gilbert of Waukegan is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. Horace Culver.

FARM TOPICS

POULTRYMEN SAVE TIME BY SCHEDULE

Time-Table Program Offered by an Expert.

By J. C. Taylor, Associate Extension Poultryman, New Jersey College of Agriculture, WNU Service.

By organizing the day's work and following a time schedule, labor efficiency on the poultry farm, one of the essential factors in its successful operation, can be greatly increased.

A poultryman will find he can accomplish more work during the day by following a schedule and such a plan is especially valuable during the spring months when incubation and brooding, in addition to caring for the laying flock, keep most poultrymen busy from early morning until night.

A daily schedule or "time-table" for doing routine work is also one step toward reducing labor costs. The following guide is offered to organizing a work schedule to suit the needs of individual poultry farms:

6:00-6:00 a. m.—Feed and water all stock.
8:00-11:00 a. m.—Clean houses, cultivate yards and pack eggs.
11:00-12:00 m.—Feed green feed and collect eggs.
12:00-1:00 p. m.—Lunch hour.
1:00-2:00 p. m.—Water all stock.
2:00-4:00 p. m.—Some work as from 8:00 to 11:00 a. m.
4:00-8:00 p. m.—Feed and collect eggs.

Poultrymen who have not used a work schedule will find it rather difficult to adopt at first, but those who do follow the plan will be well repaid in time saved.

Another step in labor efficiency on the poultry farm is the use of labor-saving equipment. Automatic water fountains in the laying houses and water piped to the range are labor-saving and should be found on all farms. A properly constructed catching crate can reduce the labor of culling or catching broilers and pullets at least one-half. Feed and litter carriers in long houses are another means of lowering the labor requirements on the poultry farm.

Expert Computes Value of Farm Women's Labor

A farm woman's labor over a period of thirty years is worth more than $50,000, Miss Julia Newton of the Farm Credit administration told farm women at a convention held recently in Indianapolis.

In thirty years she would prepare 235,425 meals, for which labor at 15 cents a meal would reach the staggering total of more than $35,000. Some of the other services the farm woman renders over a thirty-five year period, and their labor worth are:

Garments, 3,180, at 50 cents each, $1,590; 35,400 loaves of bread at 5 cents each, $1,770; 5,930 cakes, at 10 cents each, $593; 7,000 pies, at 5 cents each, $350; preparing 1,250 bushels of vegetables, at 50 cents a bushel, $625; canning 3,625 jars of fruit, at 25 cents a jar, $906; washing 177,525 pieces of laundry, at 3 cents each, $5,321; and 35,640 hours of sweeping, dusting, and cleaning at 10 cents an hour, $3,564.

In the Feedlot

Nine good-sized eggs are equal to a pound.

Geese are never troubled with lice, blackhead or roup.

To carry the 3,000,000 eggs sent to New England relief agencies required 20 freight cars.

An unhealthy, poorly developed hen or pullet is seldom profitable herself, and she may serve as a carrier of disease to the rest of the laying flock.

Pullets of light breeds normally reach maturity and begin laying at four-and-one-half to five-months. Heavy breeds require six to six-and-one-half months.

Swarming is an evil in modern beekeeping and must be controlled or it possible prevented if profitable honey crops are to be harvested.

It requires, on the average, 45.1 lbs. of ice to cool a 10-gallon can of milk from 90 degrees to 38.5 degrees Fahrenheit.

Oat yields may be increased as much as one-half of the entire crop if the seed is treated properly for smut, advises C. R. Cross, Oklahoma A. and M. College agronomist.

In most areas it is as dangerous to apply lime without making a soil test as it is to take for granted that no lime is needed.

Western farmers report a large acreage of winter wheat but say that a great deal of this will be used only for pasture.

Sheep were the only farm animals present in larger numbers on farms of the United States on January 1, 1937, than were present a year previously.

FREE PORT GUARDED BY "ELECTRIC EYE"

Staten Island Zone Is Only One of Kind in U. S.

New York.—Shining day and night, casting its piercing ray through fog and across 2,700 feet of water, an ever-alert sentinel guards the entrance to the new free port at Stapleton, Staten Island, N. Y.

This sentinel, warning of any object, no matter how large or small, that breaks its intangible barrier, is the "electric eye" that protects the first and only free port of modern times in the United States.

A free port is a restricted foreign-trade zone where foreign goods may be repacked, graded, stored, mixed with other foreign or domestic goods, assembled and transhipped without going through customs. Regular import duties are paid if and when the goods ultimately are imported into the country.

Four Ports Proposed.

About 43 ports have been set up in various parts of the world. The Staten Island zone, the only such port in this country, possibly is the predecessor of four free ports in the United States. Two would be located on the Atlantic coast, according to plans revealed a year ago by representatives of the administration, one on the Gulf coast and one on the Pacific coast.

The most novel feature of the New York free port is the "electric eye" which went into operation as soon as the zone was opened February 1. Its use for such a purpose marks the first time that an actual physical barrier has not been used in free ports. All other free ports throughout the world use barriers which are opened or closed to admit vessels to enter or leave the unrestricted sections.

The "electric eye" is constructed so that a 1,000-watt light shines out of a black, trunklike box which rises and falls with the tides. This light sends its rays from the north boundary of the free zone to the photo-electric cell at the other end. While nothing interrupts the beam, all is quiet but the instant a vessel enters the zone an alarm is sounded. At night the light sends a white line across the water. It shines so brightly that it is possible to read a newspaper by its light a half-mile away.

Four Piers in Zone.

Customs men, paid by New York city, keep a 24-hour watch at the port. Its physical makeup includes four piers, owned by the city, 30 acres of land on which warehouses and other buildings will be constructed and a 12-foot steel fence around the restricted zone. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, one of the original sponsors of the port, estimated that its operation will yield about $150,000 annually.

A movement to establish free ports in the United States first started a generation ago. The enabling legislation which made the free port of New York possible was the Celler bill, which President Roosevelt signed on June 18, 1934. This act created a free trade zones board, consisting of the secretaries of commerce, war and the treasury.

The principal free ports in Europe now are Copenhagen, Danzig and Hamburg.

Sisters in America 50 Years Are Naturalized

Cincinnati, Ohio.—Two Irish sisters who have been in America more than a half century are naturalized citizens at last. The Misses Catherine and Margaret Begley, seventy-two and seventy-six, respectively, were among the 91 aliens who received naturalization papers from Judge Robert R. Nevin in United States district court here.

Quits After Answering Fifty Million Questions

Montreal.—Canada's "champion question answerer" is retiring. He is Peter Laviole, who for 23 years has stood behind a counter in the Windsor station here answering queries from travelers. He estimates he has answered more than 50,000,000 questions in English and French during his career.

Mothers of Invention

Few Among Women

New York.—Women are not very good inventors, the American bureau of invention said recently. Director Roy Gross estimated that of the more than 2,000,000 ideas patented in the United States during the last 100 years, only 15,000 came from women.

Girl Can Converse Freely With Birds

Fowler.—If Harriett Moss, twenty-year-old Fowler farm girl, could learn to fly, grow feathers and develop preference for a diet of bird seed and gravel, she would be a bird.

Although she can't fool folks who can see, her into believing that she is a bird, she can fool the birds.

For years during her spare time she has studied bird calls. She is now so expert that she can carry on conversations with a dozen or more varieties of birds.

Waukegan Takes First Golf Tournament

The first inter-school golf tournament was played Wednesday afternoon between Antioch and Waukegan High school. The match was played at the Chain o' Lakes Golf course. The boys who made up the local team were Charles Hawkins, Bernard Osmond, Charles Miller, and Clifford Schonscheck. As three matched players turned in their scores the tallies were 5 to 4 in favor of Waukegan. When the fourth twosome turned in the final score was 8 to 4 in favor of Waukegan. A return match has been arranged at Waukegan. The local golf team will have a number of golf matches this spring with other lake shore schools.

Lake Forest high school students tomorrow afternoon will hear the orchestra and choral group from the Antioch Township High school at a special assembly at the Lake Forest school.

The Lake Forest musicians will return the courtesy by appearing in Antioch on May 7.

ICE-LOCKED LAND AT LAST CONQUERED

Modern Inventions Open Up Tract in Alberta.

Goldfields, Alberta.—Millions of square miles of ice-blocked land, for centuries accessible only to Indians, Eskimos, trappers and traders, are slowly being conquered by man-made Twentieth century inventions.

Along the shores of Lake Athabasca and throughout the neighboring territory, towns and villages are springing up like mushrooms as the frontiers are forced back. Gradually the tremendous wealth of the area is being developed.

Where Samuel Hearne fought his way across the arctic coast and where Hendrik Hudson died, tiny settlements of miners, mining engineers and government officials are coming into being. Some of them have risen during the last two years. Most of them in the last six months. Gold and radium created them and will keep them alive until the resources of the country are fully exploited.

Outpost, Yellowknife, Gordon Lake and Fond du Lac are a few of the newborn villages. Goldfields is another, but is quickly developing into a modern town. Already it boasts a badminton club, hockey team, barber shop, liquor store and a bootlegger, too.

Ten years ago this barren, north-land was guarded by a then impenetrable barrier of snow and ice. The gold and radium now being taken from the earth were immovable because it was impossible to ship the necessary machinery and equipment into the country.

And then aviation came into this sequestered land and tossed back the frontier that time, distance and climate had held strong since the ice age. Daily now, men and thousands of pounds of material are flown in and the gold and radium flow out.

Airplanes in this country are the equivalent of buses in the civilized sections of the province. Their traffic is part of this industry that is swiftly becoming the greatest in the country.

Wyoming Charts Steps to Wipe Out Rustlers

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Full police powers of every state in "cattledom" must be convoked against modern mechanized marauders of the plains whose rustling of a single steer today is costing ranchers more than did the loss of a small herd in the pre-automobile days, the Wyoming Stock Growers association has decided.

First step in the plan to rid Wyoming of its epidemic of rustling is doubling of the state's highway patrol and adopting a port-of-entry system for highway commerce.

The ports-of-entry plan is designed to prevent trucks from carrying out of the state slaughtered beef stolen from ranches.

Rustling nowadays differs from the old-time raiding only in the increased efficiency of the modern thieves, according to the association.

The up-to-date rustler backs his truck into a field, captures and butchers 12 or 15 prize animals and drives away to market. Since the rustlers leave only a tire track as a trace of their work, animals taken from large herds often are not missed until the rancher attempts to market them himself.

Authorities have found it virtually impossible to capture the bandits, and when captured, to convict them.

Singing Mice Were First Observed Back in 1878

Urbana, Ill.—According to Dr. E. Roberts, professor of animal genetics at the University of Illinois, the state institution has had "singing" mice in previous years, although the laboratory does not have any at the present time.

According to Prof. Roberts, singing mice were first observed in 1878, hence Minnie, the "singing mouse," which received much newspaper publicity in recent weeks, is not such a novelty after all.

"Singing mice," according to Professor Roberts, are generally quite small, and they have very large ears, being darker than the average mice. According to Professor Roberts, it is possible that the mouse is able to "sing" because of some abnormal structure of the throat organs.

Canyon Hermit Irked; Neighbors Too Close

Salt Lake City.—Julian Kucke, seventy-eight-year-old "hermit of the Wasatch," is disgusted with hermiting.

It all started early during the winter, when snow caved in the roof of Kucke's tiny cabin in lonely Little Cottonwood canyon, and Wasatch national forest rangers forced him to move nearer a highway so they wouldn't be compelled to organize searching parties every week to see how he was faring.

So Kucke moved a bit farther down the canyon.

And now his cabin is surrounded by ERA and CCC workers, busily chopping and digging and building, to make the location a resort.

"Plain People" Protest U. S. Gift

Clad in the quaint Amish costume of Pennsylvania's "Plain People," Jonathon Zook, left, and Amos Fisher, are shown in Washington after they had made formal protest against Uncle Sam's PWA gift of $50,250 which was to rebuild a school house in their district. Tenets of their sect forbid acceptance of loans.

Flogging in England

In England flogging probably reached its heyday after the monasteries, where the poor had been sure of free meals, were abolished. This led to a great increase in vagrancy. The punishment was whipping. In many places the law provided that a vagrant be carried to some market town "and there tied to the end of a cart, naked, and beaten with whips throughout such market town till the body shall be bloody." Queen Elizabeth changed the law so offenders were stripped only to the waist. She also substituted the whipping post for the cart.

Mink Is a Wanderer

The male mink is a wanderer. He will often travel 10 to 15 miles in a night, says Successful Farming. The female, on the other hand, rarely leaves her den more than a quarter of a mile. The female skins are of finer quality than the male, but rarely grade more than medium. The weather is never too cold for the mink to travel.

"Great Eastern" Vessel Had Paddle Wheels, Screw

The famous "Great Eastern" steamship was designed by Isambard K. Brunel and Scott Russell of England and was finished in 1869, being originally intended for service between England and Australia. She was 692 feet in length, of 10,000 tons gross, and was driven by two sets of engines powered by a hundred furnaces, one set turning paddle wheels, the other a screw. She had five funnels and six masts, spreading 6,500 yards of canvas. The paddle wheels were 58 feet in diameter and the screw propeller 24 feet in diameter.

There were accommodations for a total of 4,000 passengers and a crew of 400, according to a writer in the Detroit News. The breadth of the ship was 83 feet and her depth 58 feet. On her maiden voyage from Southampton to New York (June 17 to 28, 1869) she averaged about 13½ knots a day and her daily consumption of coal was nearly 300 tons. Excursion parties came from principal cities to visit this majestic vessel, for many years the world's largest. After several trips between the two countries she was employed as a troopship and then as a cable-laying ship.

Various attempts after this were made to utilize her, but at last she came to be a mere holiday spectacle and was broken up in 1888. From the time of her launching (which cost $300,000 and lasted three months) she was a gigantic failure commercially.

Lace Goes Style High for Day Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

CHOOSE for your afternoon costume a suit tailored of lace and you will have arrived at the dizziest heights of fashion. We know of no more all-important, all-significant gesture that has to do with current costume design than this of tuning lace to general daytime wear.

The grand part of the existing enthusiasm for lace in the daytime is that it is revealing as it never revealed before the practical wearability for all hours and the assured adaptability of this feminine-beloved medium. Then, too, such wide use of lace as is now manifest, brings much anew of romance and loveliness into the afternoon hours of fashion.

Just recently a pageantry of lace was staged in the ballroom of one of the noted superb hotels in Miami which presented a most entrancing scene. At this gorgeous lace ball, which seemed almost as if it were a glimpse of fairyland, the program unfolded with breathtaking beauty with a promise of style futures that assured an unprecedented vogue for lace. Notwithstanding the lure of ravishing evening creations of shimmering filmy lace or of the very new printed laces or of crisp starched lace silhouettes, or of lace in the very new "pretty" colors (cyclamen pink, thistle, azure blue and such), not forgetting smart black or white, the big message comes to us of the importance of daytime lace fashions, such as, for example, the suit of dark lace centered in the accompanying illustration.

This model by Victor Stiebel (London designers are certainly coming to the front this season) is of navy wool lace lined with the red crepe. The skirt blouse is in the same tile red crepe with pleats at the front from yoke to waist. The hat is designed especially to complement the suit, being of the identical wool lace worked with felt in the same colors.

Likewise, the daytime dress tailored of lace declares its practicality as well as its flattering, prepossessing looks. The two-piece model to the left in the picture, being smartly tailored, bespeaks all that one could wish for to wear to any afternoon occasion from spectator sports to the cocktail hour. Just now it is proving highly acceptable for cruise or resort wear. It is wearable, also, under the fur coat or a new spring topcoat, if you are faring north. It has puff sleeves and high pockets on the blouse, both of which features are pet topics with young girls this season.

The suit illustrated to the right speaks in dramatic terms of the use being made of val lace during this season. The shops are showing daintiest of blouses thusly fashioned of val and the neckwear departments are making a big showing of ravishing collar and cuff sets, bibs, vests and the like of this type lace worked row-on-row on net foundations. In this model we see a winter resort fashion such as is to be taken seriously as a forerunner of a style-to-be when summer comes north. This stunning suit of shirred val lace on a net background tells better than words of the whole-hearted way in which designers are emphasizing lace this season.

And have you seen the new lace frocks with all-around pleated skirts? If not you have a revelation of super chic and charm awaiting you. There is a fabric type of lace suggesting eyelet embroidery that yields most graciously to this treatment. Printed laces are immensely important.

HAT CROWNS LOWER AS SKIRTS SHORTEN

Skirts are climbing higher and higher and now rest between 14 and 16 inches from the ground. In order not to present an awkward silhouette, the big couturiers are elevating waistlines and thus preserve symmetry. Daytime dresses have high waistlines and evening gowns go even higher with Empire or 1910 waistlines.

Hat crowns are tumbling as skirt lengths climb. The flowerpot crowns of last season have come back to normal in order not to look ridiculous with the shorter skirts. Many crowns are normally rounded while some are squared and others irregular in shape.

It is difficult to say what width and proportions spring skirts will take. Some houses show light, narrow and short skirts, similar to that which was so popular earlier in the season. Still other houses show skirts that are slim and straight in front but leave much back fullness, inspired by the Directoire silhouette.

Hand-Knit Goods Suited for Day or Night Wear

Expert workmanship has now made it possible for women to wear hand-knit clothes for every hour of the day or night. Knitted clothes being shown in Paris come in a variety of weaves and threads. Hand-knitted coats made of warm, heavy woolen threads are used for winter sports while lacy weaves of silk threads make cobwebby evening gowns. Some of the clothes are knitted directly on the needles to follow a certain pattern, but the greater part of the materials are knitted in great lengths so that the material can be cut, tailored and fitted more exactly to the styles of the day.

Black Still Leads

Black remains the popular choice for street wear, although colors are shown for sports or afternoon wear.

TEEN-AGE FROCK

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Special emphasis is being put on dresses for the 'teen-age girl. Tailored girl fashions such as this are designed to avoid the "awkward age." They are youthful but not childish, simple but not plain. Here is a charming tailored girl dress. It is made of gaily patterned crinkled eloquency cotton and is one of the many cunning models of this material that is being shown in the shops and 'teen-age dress sections this spring.

Where Mountain Lions Live

Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and catamount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunted chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the desert mountain ranges of Arizona, Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, except in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

Test Ripeness of Cheese

by Listening to "Tone"

Experts in the Parmesan cheese warehouses test the ripeness of their product not by smelling it, but by listening to its "tone," according to a correspondent in the Chicago Daily News. The tone is produced by a little silver hammer, and after cheeses have been in the warehouse at least two years the tester goes about tapping them with the hammer, listening for the ring which assures him that they are ready for market.

The actual making of Parmesan cheese is a short process, but its curing long. After the cheese has been formed it is put in a brine bath for fifteen days, next sweetened and then stored away for about eight months. At the end of this time it is painted with special vegetable oils, which give it a glossy black coating, and then stored with hundreds of others to complete its ripening.

Its special flavor is supposed to come from the grass of this region, which is also famous for its violets. Parmesan cheese is popular everywhere in Italy, and American travelers find it sprinkled not only on their spaghetti and macaroni, but but also over soups, vegetables and eggs.

McClellan, Popular Soldier

George B. McClellan, who at the outbreak of the Civil war was commissioned a major general by the governor of Ohio, was a popular man among his soldiers despite the fact that Lincoln, after some friction between the two, relieved him of command of the army of the Potomac. In the same year that his command was taken, 1864, he was nominated for president on a platform that denounced war as a failure. Thus the same army of whose command he had been relieved was called upon to decide between Lincoln and McClellan. The vote: Lincoln, 250; McClellan, 228.

Christ of the Andes

Although there is no trace of the inscription on the monument known as the Christ of the Andes, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, there is a tradition that the following inscription was originally carved in the stone: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble to dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace which at the feet of Christ the Redeemer they have sworn to maintain." The statue was erected on the boundary line between Chile and Argentina, in Upsallata Pass, to commemorate the peaceful settlement of a boundary dispute in 1902. The dedication ceremonies took place March 13, 1904.

ADVENTURERS Hello Everybody

"Man With the Knife"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HERE is a story sent to me by Eva Halm of Chicago—the story of a little girl whose impulsive act saved her from one danger, only to throw her into another one.

Eva has grown up in the meantime, but back in 1907, when she was just a kid, her dad was superintendent of the trolley car lines over a large area in Chicago. He spent the day going from one station or car-barn to another, and at night, after dinner, he usually drove down to the biggest station and checked over the others by telephone.

Those were the horse and buggy days. Eva's dad drove a spirited horse hitched to a light rubber-tired runabout, and usually when he went to the main station in the evening someone in the family rode with him.

On this particular night it was Eva who was to go driving with him. There had been some labor trouble on the line and some of the men were out to "get" the superintendent. As a result, he carried a loaded .38 revolver in a leather holster in his hip pocket.

Dad Took His Gun Along.

He slipped the gun in his pocket that night as he was starting out—and then he forgot about it.

Eva noticed that. She knew, too, that there were a couple of pretty tough customers among the men who were "alter" her dad, and she asked him why he didn't keep that gun in his overcoat pocket where he could get at it more easily.

But dad just laughed at her. They got into the carriage and drove along. The station he was heading for was quite a distance away and about three miles from home.

Eva Used the Whip and the Horse Plunged.

they had to cross the Belmont avenue bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river.

The bridge was darkest in the middle, for only the arc lamps at either end gave it light. They had just about reached that darkest point when a roughly dressed man stepped out from behind one of the bridge uprights.

Eva's dad had to pull up the horse. Often, when he couldn't be reached by phone, a pitman was sent from a nearby station to give him a message at this point.

There Were Two of Them.

He brought the horse to a stop as he approached the man and said, "Well, what is it?"

But at that same moment another roughly dressed figure stepped from the other side of the bridge and caught hold of the horse's head.

For a minute no one spoke. Then, suddenly it dawned on Eva that these couldn't be men from the station. If they were, why didn't they answer? And if they weren't—well—then they must be a couple of those fellows who were trying to "get" her dad.

And then Eva saw something else. The fellow up front by the horse's head had something in his hand which gleamed dully in the dim light.

Eva Had an Inspiration.

A knife! Right then was when Eva acted on impulse. She jumped to her feet, reached over the reins in her dad's hands and snatched the whip from his socket. As she grabbed that whip she thought of the gun in her dad's pocket, buried under those buttoned-up coats where he couldn't get at it. Then she raised the whip and brought it down on the horse's back with all her strength.

The horse reared and plunged. The man at his head jumped aside, cursing. The carriage moved back and forth, and Eva fell sideways. Just in time her dad reached out and caught her.

"But for his quick action," she says, "I would have been thrown to the bridge and probably knifed to death."

But that move of her dad's was disastrous. In reaching out for her he had slacked up on the reins and lost control of the horse.

The horse got the bit in its teeth and away it went.

But at last dad pulled the horse up and turned it into the street leading to the station. When it was all over he turned to her and said: "You must never do that again. You might have been killed."

But Eva still wonders what would have happened if she hadn't done it.
